SUMMARY OF THE REASONS FOR DECISION:

The magazine entitled Exciting 62 is classified as:
Objectionable.

The magazine promotes and supports the use of urine in association with sexual conduct. It presents a series of photographs that feature women urinating onto each other. The photographs have a particularly sharp focus and some are shown in close-up. The photographs are accompanied by text that refers to the practice in positive terms. The act of urination takes place in the context of sexual activity that is described as alternative or unusual. Such a description adds an element of curiosity to the practice and enhances the level of sexual titillation.

The magazine is a glossy publication that contains a large proportion of coloured photographic images of male to female and female to female sexual activity. The photographs are of an explicit nature. The magazine is intended to be read by a male audience, and such a readership is catered for by providing a strong role for the women in the magazine. The models in the magazine are of various ages and are of different physiques. The magazine provides a strong focus on full-body images of men and women engaged in the sexual activity which consist mainly of fellatio and anal and vaginal intercourse. Alternative sexual practices such as the insertion of the hand into the vagina and anus also take place but are not a strong feature of the magazine.

The style of the photographs and the purposive approach of the magazine to the use of urine in association with sexual conduct is of a quality whereby the Classification Office is of the opinion that the magazine promotes and supports the use of urine in association with sexual conduct.

In reaching this decision the Classification Office has expressly taken into consideration the New Zealand Bill of Rights Act 1990.
